

Two Fighting Cats

One day two cats found a loaf of bread.

Both the cats
wanted the bread so they began fighting.

They clawed
at each other
and fought
for long.

Along came
a monkey.

"Why are you
fighting?"

he asked.

The cats
snarled,
"We are fighting
because we
both want
to eat the bread."

The monkey
asked,
"Why don't you
share it?"

The cats said,
"We don't want
the other
to get more,
so we cannot
share it."

"All right,"
said the monkey,

"I'll help
you to cut
it in half."

The
monkey
tore
loaf
into
two.

One bit
looks bigger,
let me make
them the same size,"
he said,

and ate a
little of one of the pieces of
bread.

Then the other piece looked bigger, so he ate a little of it.

The cats
were so
busy fighting
each other,
they did not see the
monkey eating
the bread.

In the mean time,
the monkey
ate the whole
loaf.

The cats did not get any
bread,
because they were busy
fighting.

When the cats saw the monkey running away, they knew that they should have worked together and shared.
