

Fearless Prince Vardhaman

Prince Vardhaman was a very fearless child. He would try to teach his friends that they should not be afraid of anything. If they were brave they will be able to do much more.

One day
he they
was playing with his friends.

Suddenly, a huge snake suddenly came from no where. All the children ran away, but the prince very bravely stood in front of the snake.

Then he gently
held snake, as if it were a garland
of flowers.

He turned around and asked his friends, "Why were you running away in fear? The snake, poor fellow is also scared of you."

If you don't trouble or attack it, it will not bite you!"

Since then Prince Vardhaman's friends tried to be brave and fearless.
